

Title:	"VALUE OF HUMAN LIFE AND VALUE OF HUMAN HERITAGE: A NEW HUMANIST, LAICIST AND UNIVERSAL VISION"	Date:	February 18th 2013

What is	This seminar focuses on the value of human life, and the huge heritage represented by more than seven billion individuals. The value of life is analyzed from different points of view: philosophy, religion, compassion, the potential of work and development, the hotbed of ideas and creativity, the richness and cultural diversity, the horizon of civil growth toward a fully human status, compassion and responsibility toward the other life forms, without neglecting the extremely acute vision let to us by some great science fiction writers. The current global social growth crisis is analyzed as well, and some escape routes are outlined, together with methods useful to trigger virtuous processes of inclusion and full valorization of the human heritage in the process. We will also analyze different scenarios arising from continued growth in a closed system, as opposed to more optimist scenarios that could flow if the world will be open.
